BAW HIS GENERAL AGAIN.

While General Sherman was visiting Prescott, Arizona, recently, a ball was given in his honor, for which the price of admission was $10. An army officer who was present discribes one of the incidents in the following words: "In the midst of the joyous dance a miner, a son of toil, with unkempt hair, soiled face and hands, had the usual miner's outfit, trowsers in his boots, in shirt sleeves, a belt filled with catridges, pistol and knife, approached the door, and said to the attendant: 'See here, my friend, how much does it cost to get into this lay-out?' 'Ten dollars,' replied the attendent. 'Does this give a feller the right to go in and QUARTZ MILL and shake hands with General Sherman? Cortainly, was the reply. Ten of all descriptions. All orders filled with dollars goes, said the miner, and, promptness and dispatch and at the LOWEST harding the attendent a ten dollar. handing the attendant a ten dollar bill, he entered the ball-room. He wended his way carefully though the crowd, avoiding the ladies' trains as deftly as could have been done by one of our famous German leaders. approached the General, and said: 'General Sherman, I merely want to shake your hand. I fought under you in the march to the sea,' and turned

The Reverend had been an army chaplain during the war, and while we were bunting for a road that would lead to Hamilton, he told a story about two dying soldiers which intre that in the Potomac hospitals rough pine coffins were furnished by the Government, but that it was not always possible to keep up with the demand, so, when a man died, if there was no coffin at hand he was hereight without one. One night late.

Reno, Oct. 10, 1878.4m baried without one. One night late, two soldiers lay dying in a ward. A man came in with a coffin on his shoulder and stood trying to make up his mind which of these two poor fellows would be likely to need it first. Both of them begged for it with their fading eyes—they were past talking. Then one of them protected a wasted hand from his blankets and made a feeble beck-oning sign with the fingers, "Be a good fellow; put it, under my bed, please." The man didit and left. The lucky soldier psinfully turned himself in his bed until he faced the other warrior, raised himself partly on his elbow, and began to work up a mysterious expression of some kind in his face. Gradually, irksomely, but surely and stoadily, it developed and at last it took definite form as a pretty successful wink. The sufferer fell back exhanated with his labor but bathed in glory. Now entered a personal friend of No. 2, the despoiled soldier. No. 2 pleaded with him with eloquent eyes, till presently he understood and removed the coffin from under No. 1's bed and put it under No. 2's. No. 2 indicated his fellows would be likely to need it from under No. 1's bed and put it under No.2's. No. 2 indicated his joy, and made some more signs; the friend understood again, and put his arm around No. 2's shoulder and lifted him partly up. Then the dying hero turned the dim exultation of his eye upon No.1, and began a slow and labored work with his hands; gradually he lifted one hand up toward his face; it grew weak and dropped back again; once more he made the effort, but failed again. He took a reat; he gathered ail the remnant of his strength, and this tumb to the side of his nose, spread his gaunt fingers wide in triumph, under No.2's. No. 2 indicated his his gaunt flogers wide in triumph, and dropped back dead. The picture sticks by me yet. The "situation" is unique.—Mark Twain.

ceded on all sides that Kearney contributed to Butler's defeat, and he is in very bad odor at the General's headquarters. M. S. Davitt, Butler's Ancient, said to Kearney Friday night: "I hope you are satisfied, now that you have done so much to defeet us." Kenney, however, takes a different view, and says Butler owee his defeat to the fact that he resorted to political wire-pulling and trusted the management of the campaign to political bummers. Kearney says he is prepared to organize the different wards of the city in the interest of the Workingmen, and will nominate and elect a son of toil as Mayor. He says be recognized the mistake he has made in stooping to any affiliation with old political parties, and that by working independently of all, the Workingmen are sure to win.

Petitions for a recount of votes in the Third Congressions) District, Massachusetts, in which Field defested Dean, were filled yesterday on the ground that several hundred ballots were counted for Field which did not belong to him. The difficulty arose entirely from ballots having the name of Benjamin Dean for Congress duplicated there. In one case the name was in large plain type and in likely to be noticed. One ticket had another small type not easily read or the name of Mr. Dean in small type at the bottom of a slip where the gun." printer's name is often placed. These ballots were gotten up, it is said, after legal consultation, it being well understood that if cast as printed each vote would count but one for Dean, and if Field's name was pasted over one of Dean's, the paster and the remaining printed name of Dean would neultalize each other, and the citizen who falended to vote for tives the following complexion: Re-Pield instead of Dean would lose his publicans, 188; Democrate,

REPUBLICAN VICTORY.

As the returns come in the success of the Republican State ticket becomes more apparent and certain. Yesterday's geturns remove all doubts to the election of Hatch and Bicknell and add much to Hammond's chances. A telegram was received in Virginia City last evening at 6 o'clock that unexpectedly large Republican returns had been received from outside precincts which had been counted as Democratic, and that these change the vote so that Harry Mighels is elected Lieutenant Governor by seventy-two! Hammond is also declared elected by the same dispatch. This lacks confimation, and we only give it as a rumor, which, should it prove true, would send a thrill of satisfaction through the Republicans of Nevada. The victory ought to be complete.

THE RETURNS.

The election returns from the remote districts of the State are unaccountably slow in coming in, says the Enterprise, but enough is known to be certain of all the State ticket except Hammond and Sessions. It is probable that Sessions is elected, and almost certain that Mighels is defeated. All the rest of the Republican ticket is elected. Governor Kinkead's majority will be about 900 in the 5th is the stinging rebuke adthe State, and Congressmen Daggett's ministered to those who have been into France by Catherine de Medicie. will be just about the same. MURDER WILL OUT.

Jose Pico Arrested for a Murder Committed Seven Years Age-Mis Side of the Story.

Yesterday morning at about 10 o'clock Constable elect G. W. Avery arrested Jose Pico, alias Jose Saleo. on a charge of having murdered a man in Los Angeles. Cal. Avery saw a telegram advertised for the man and, remembering the name, told Mr. Wilbur, the Western Union operator here, to look out and let him know when the message was called for. This was two weeks ago, and the circumstances almost passed from Mr. Wilbur's mind, but the moment the stranger called for the telegram he remembered it and quietly telling the message boy to get Avery, engaged the man in conversation, making himself as agreeable as if he were talking to a young lady. The man R Mason, London R J Smith, Maine was sociably inclined and continued conversation until Avery stepped in Halsey, Virginia and arrested him. He gave up very quietly and was imprisoned to await the arrival of officers from Los Augeles. Pico has been employed by Russell & Sawyer, stock men at Wadsworth, as a vaquero, and has been in the pastures nearly all the time, but seeing the telegram advertised, he ventured to come to town to get it, knowing that it was an order for money. He admits that he killed desperate chances to get across the the man, but gives as the reason that railroad track in front of a moving arrested vesterday.
